

Hartnell Sets Series Of Religious Forums

Brotherhood week, which is sponsored annually by the National Conference of Christians and Jews, will receive special recognition this year at Hartnell, according to Dr. Lionel Olsen, dean of student personnel.

During the week of Feb. 15-22, the sponsors urge students to rededicate themselves to the belief that the universal fatherhood of God makes all men brothers, and that the American people can solve their current problems through democratic processes.

Hartnell is sponsoring a series of three Brotherhood week talks to be held in the student union at noon. First will be a talk by the Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Early, pastor of Sacred Heart church, on Feb. 16. He will discuss Roman Catholicism.

On Feb. 18 Rabbi Abraham Haselkorn of the Hebrew congregation will talk on Judaism. The final talk will be by the Rev. Jerome F. Politzer, vicar of St. George's Episcopal mission, on Feb. 20. He will present the protestant viewpoint.

Each speaker will devote part of his time to presenting the historical background of his faith as well as some of its tenets. The remainder of the hour will be devoted to questions and answers.

Registrar Sets January 20-22 Validating Date

Students presently enrolled at Hartnell college who have already filed their spring semester programs at station four will be required to report to station two to validate their registration between Jan. 20-22, according to Mr. Karl Bengston, registrar.

Many classes have been closed, and students failing to have their registration validated at the proper time face the possibility of losing their places in filled classes.

Spring semester classes officially begin Feb. 2. The last day for late registration is Feb. 16, and final study lists are to be filed Feb. 20. The date for dropping a class with a grade of "W" is March 27.

Appointments for enrollment have been made for the coming semester by 170 new students. The total enrollment will be about 1,200 in Hartnell day classes.

Coach Blue Attends NCAA Rules Confab

Coach Ken Blue left for Los Angeles Sunday to attend the meeting of the NCAA rules committee. Coach Blue was chosen to represent the junior colleges.

There is also a representative from the southern part of the state and all of the major collegiate conferences in the United States were to be represented.

All of the representatives received a list of the rules to be discussed, and they were free to make suggestions of their own.

Aliens Must Register

Aliens residing in the United States are required to file an address report form at any post office or immigration office this month. The United States government conducts an alien address report program during January of each year.

Yearbook Ready For Press

Neil Allred, member of the offset printing department at El Camino Press, looks over final plates for the fall issue of the 1958 La Reata with two staff members, Demetria Da-Aton and Marion Howells. Pledge cards for La Reata are now on sale for both spring and fall issues. The latter will be distributed in about three weeks.

1959 Yearbook Pledges on Sale; Fall Copies Ready Next Month

Pledge cards for the 1959 La Reata are on sale in the main hall. The fall issue will be distributed early in February.

Prices are $2 for both issues for student body card holders and $2.50 for those who do not have student body cards or $1.25 for one issue only.

The fall issue features pictures from the past football season, faculty and freshman pictures, and other activities. Salesmen are Demetria Da-Aton, Bob Alread, David Gates, David Swift, Marion Howells and Evelyn Peace.

The staff is working on the spring issue. Club pictures are being scheduled, and sophomore pictures will be taken next month. Sophomores who will not return next semester are asked to telephone the Frayne studio and make an appointment to have their pictures taken. The cost is $3.

11 Asians Train In Technology

Eleven foreign students from Asia are enrolled in technical courses at Hartnell college.

Some of the students did not have chemistry, physics or mathematics during their high school years. While at Hartnell, the foreign students will spend an extra year completing lower division requirements.

The foreign students and their occupational choices are Charles Tang, Paul Ng, Shozo Yoshihara, Akito Shikuma, Helen Tang and Eduardo Esperante, engineering; Yiyomi Yamamoto and Gino Lauw, architecture; Simon Dansalan, electronics; Felix Ponce, mechanics, and Dionisio Olimba, premedical.

ICC Discusses Carnival Ideas

The possibility of holding a spring carnival was one of the topics under discussion at the Jan. 8 meeting of the Interclub council. Representatives will present carnival ideas to their individual clubs who in turn will decide if and when such a function will be held. Each club will have its own booth at the affair.

A talent show was also discussed. The group decided that if one is held, each club would organize its own skit.

Homecoming week activities were talked over and improvements for next year were suggested.

Farmers Elect Calcagno Head

Louis Calcagno was elected president of the Hartnell Young Farmers at a reorganizational meeting this week. The group's activities are conducted from Jan. 1 until the end of the year instead of on a school year basis, according to Mr. Legro Pressley, advisor.

Other officers are Richard Fleming, vice-president; Mike Ford, secretary; Alex Hallimore, treasurer, and Leroy Bell, reporter.

The club serves both Hartnell students and members of the community.

Student Budget Raised by $7300

The newly revised Hartnell Associated Student Body budget was accepted with a $7,300 increase by the student commission Tuesday. Estimated income and expenses for 1958-59 increased from $25,210 proposed at the beginning of last year to $32,510.

Dramatists Set New Production Tryouts Feb. 2

Sets are in the early stages of construction for the forthcoming Hartnell college - community playhouse television presentation of "The Old Beginning," by Horton Foote, Broadway playwright. This production is taken from a group of six plays written by Foote under the title, "A Young Lady of Property."

Last year, KSBW telecasted the Hartnell production of "The Dancers," another of the six plays.

Three sets, a drugstore, the street outside it, and the real estate office across the street, will be built for the presentation so that characters' actions may be followed from one place to the other.

Library Building Moves on Schedule, Furniture Viewed

Construction of the new Hartnell library is continuing on schedule in spite of the wet weather. The last of the concrete floor will be poured soon. Final work should be completed around April, according to Mr. Stuart Dufour, Hartnell vice-president.

Furniture for the new building has not been collected. Various firms have been invited to display samples of their furniture at the board of trustees' meeting Tuesday. This will help the Hartnell officials make a final division on the furniture to be used in the library which will be open to students at the beginning of the fall semester.

Night Class Registration Starts, Instruction Commences Feb. 2

Hartnell extended day classes are beginning to fill for the spring semester. More inquiries from students and members of the community are being made into evening education than ever before, according to Mr. C. I. Bentley, dean of extended day.

Classes in painting and water coloring have already reached full capacity. Others in business machines and supervision in business administration may be offered if enough interest is shown. A class in California school law for lower division education majors may be considered as an extension class from San Jose State if enough students sign-up.

Classes presently open are carpentry, electronics, plumbing, welding, crafts, principles of ac-

The increase in income can be attributed primarily to the Panthers' successful football season. Football receipts were $9,200 over the anticipated income while programs brought in $275 over the estimated $225.

The football fund was allotted an extra $100 under the new budget for expenses. The change was made mainly because of the team's trip to Compton. An additional $250 was added to insurance expenses since this year Hartnell took out rain insurance in the event that a downfall would decrease attendance.

More Dances Pondered
The publicity department was allocated $450 more than had been planned at the beginning of 1958. A large part of the public relations expenses was due to the publicity for the Junior Rose bowl bid. A new camera has been purchased.

Morgan, Kenton May Play Here

Russ Morgan or Stan Kenton band may play at a Hartnell student body-sponsored dance Feb. 13 or 23, it was decided by the student commission Tuesday.

A committee headed by Jane Ross, student commissioner of social activities, is investigating the possibilities of renting the Palma high school gym for the dance and of inviting the Monterey Peninsula college students to the affair.

The board of trustees must approve before final arrangements can be made.

counting, business law, play and television production, English A, 1A, and 53A, History 17B and 41, Elementary Algebra 51, Zoology 10, Botany 12E, police reserve training, police in service training, Political Science 20, general psychology, radio and television and auto mechanics.

The last day for late registration is Feb. 16. Classes begin at 7 p.m. Feb. 2. Day students as well as adults from the community may take evening classes, Mr. Bentley said.

EDITORIAL

More Sentinel Reporters Needed

The Panther Sentinel staff is determined to bring to its readers complete coverage of campus news. It is also striving to maintain the newspaper's high standing in the national ratings.

Lately, however, it has become next to impossible to accomplish these aims. In this final first semester issue, as was the case throughout much of the semester, the Sentinel had only three regular reporters. This is probably the smallest staff in the nation for a newspaper which the Associated Collegiate Press rates as "excellent."

The Sentinel could use more help—the more, the better. So far two students have enrolled as reporters for the spring semester. This is hardly enough.

Would you consider joining the staff? You need not be a journalism major. A grade of "C" in English A and ability to type are the only requirements.

Students may enroll on a full-time or part-time basis, provided they are available for at least two hours on Tuesday mornings.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"NO, NO THAT'S NOT MY CHALK DRAWER!—THAT'S WHERE I KEEP MY TEST PAPERS."

Still Transcribing

Mrs. Charles Baymiller (Anna Dietz), former secretary to Mr. Stuart Dufour, is a secretary at Lookhead aircraft in Sunnyvale. She secured the position by placing high on an employment test, according to Mrs. Anne Harper, Hartnell placement director.

Ski Trip Set

The Hartnell Ski club will go to Yosemite Jan. 31 and Feb. 1. Diane Stone reports there are 20 reservations, and that the members will stay at Yosemite lodge. They will go in private cars.

Volleyballers Tied

A tie for first place had occurred between two teams in intramural volleyball competition when the paper went to press this week. Don Bonino's team has secured eight points thus far in the tournament to tie with Jerry Chin's squad.

Special Law Aids Orphan From Far East

By Eduardo Esperante

Remigio Peralta is among the foreign students attending Hartnell college under the benefits of the War Orphan's Educational Assistance act of 1956. His father was a Filipino pilot commissioned as a second lieutenant in the United States Air force and was among the casualties at Honolulu during the Japanese sneak attack on American naval bases and airfields.

Remigio was still a child when some of the American dependents in the Philippines were transferred to Borneo. In Borneo, Remigio, his mother, his brother and his three sisters learned about the death of his father.

After five months in Borneo, the Peraltas were moved to Australia because the Japanese army was approaching. The family stayed in Melbourne three years and spent two years in Sidney. Remigio recalls only that he saw a kangaroo in one of the zoos there.

Ocean Water Too Cold

When the war was over the family returned to the Philippines and Remigio attended elementary school at Davao. He went to Manila and was graduated from the Feati Institute of Technology. Peralta came to the United States to further his study in the field of medicine but has since changed to agriculture.

Remigio's favorite hobby is deep sea diving. Back home he recalled collecting pearls from the sea. In Salinas Peralta goes to the movies because the water is too cool for deep sea diving. Peralta likes the towns and cities in America because they are well organized. He is surprised by the American frankness in expression, but he adds that Americans are nice to talk with.

WITNESS FOR THE INSTITUTION

Pay Scientists? Fine! Aid Athletes? Horror!

By Raymondo

The subject of this Friday's fish-fry is "relative justice." For the benefit of those upon whom Mr. Emil Ramos' class, Philosophy 6A, has not been inflicted, relative justice was a favorite topic of discussion among such venerable Greeks as Plato and Aristotle.

Some two thousand years ago those guys wrestled with it and with similar problems pertaining to basic truth. Undoubtedly their intellectual contributions would have brought everlasting fame and glory to Greece, had it not been for the fickleness of the public.

But, alas! some Greek cook invented the brown gravy now used universally in restaurants, and, of course, this culinary feat completely overshadowed any other Grecian contributions to mankind. Such is often the fate of great intellects.

That's Professionalism, Boy!

Yet, occasionally today some parlor discussions will get digressed from the latest shaggy dog stories to the subject of relative justice. This generally occurs when either the last six-pack has been emptied or when the TV is in the repair shop.

Now, this sterling background study on relative justice is not without a purpose. Recently the generosity of the Detroit Tigers brought this old metaphysical subject back into the national spotlight. The Tigers proposed that major league baseball teams set up scholarship funds in many universities to be used for the education of young scholars who are outstandingly talented in baseball.

Heavens to Betsy! You never heard such a clamor as was kicked up by the administrators of justice in amateur athletics, the NCAA (National Collegiate Athletic association). In its bitter renunciation of the plan it stated, "A student who has ever received directly or indirectly a salary or any other form of financial assistance (including scholarships or education grants-in-aid) from a professional sports organization . . . is no longer an amateur." Hence, no longer eligible to participate in college sports.

Discrimination Charged

Dozens of industrial giants are spending millions to sponsor higher learnings for prospective engineers and scientists. Great! Mrs. Rockefeller spends her millions furnishing scholarships for striving young musicians. Truly humanitarian! A rich father doles out two or three thousand a year to send Junior to his daddy's alma mater. Junior happens to be able to belt the cover off the old horsehide, Junior brings new diamond laurels to "dear old P.U." Father's chest swells with pride, and all is perfectly legal.

But, if the kid down the street comes from a poor family, and his folks cannot afford to send him to college, but he can bat .420 and throw a baseball through a brick wall, and he can cover an acre and a half of center field, DO NOT let a major league baseball team get caught paying for his education!

It looks from here as though the NCAA legislators took mighty reckless liberties with many high schools students' future chances of attending college. In their discussions of relative justice I wonder what Plato and Aristotle and the rest of those Greeks would have had to say about this latest atrocity against opportunity for education?

All-American Boy Lists Bad Girls

By Jim Gregory

This article arises from Barbara Jones' essay on pages 73-75 of Brooks and Warren's "Modern Rhetoric." In the essay Miss Jones tells of six different types of men to avoid on the University of Pennsylvania campus.

She lists The Party Boy, The Lover, The Great Mind, The Bohemian, The Dud and The Missing Link as the six types she'd stay away from on a date.

She gives only one side of the story. I have my own list. It includes the six types of girls I find least appealing.

Party Girl Undesirable

Type 1: The Party Girl: Unlike the party boy, this sweet little thing doesn't need alcohol to put her in the groove. From the moment you arrive at the party to the time you finally drag her home, she is constantly giggling, singing, dancing or flirting.

When she is giggling, she sounds like a hysterical horse. When she sings, you want to choke her. When she starts dancing, she looks like she's barefooted on hot coals. To her, rhythm is touching the floor eight times a second. She never has both feet on the floor at the same time, and she never lands on the same foot twice in a row.

All Passes Are Forward

When she flirts, it's always with the biggest male she can find, and he always responds with a pass or two. If you're not careful, you'll find yourself outside defending the honor you didn't know she had in the first place.

Type 2: The Passion Pit. This little lady is constantly hanging on to you. Where you go, she goes. To her the ideal situation is the two of you alone. Like the lover in Miss Jones' essay, she expects your undivided attention. She wants you all to herself.

She is always willing to park on a lonely road. In fact, she can usually guide you to a place where you will be totally without interruption. I think of all the types, The Passion Pit is the easiest to get along with.

Females Have Minds?

The next type on the list is scheduled to be The Great Mind. I'm afraid I have to decline on this one. I have yet to meet a female with a great mind.

Instead, I'll substitute the talker. This type covers almost all of the "female race". It is probably the reason there are few females with great minds. They are too busy talking to ever learn anything.

Type 4: The Bohemian. This type is always easy to spot. If you can't tell her by her sweat shirt, faded levis and tennis shoes, you're sure to recognize her by her crewcut. This type is perfect to take home to meet the family. If the sweat shirt fits loosely enough, she can spend the night without anyone being the wiser.

Type 5: The Puritan. This is the counterpart of Miss Jones' Dud. If you smoke a cigarette around her, you're uncouth. If you, take a drink in her presence, you're vulgar, and if you have the audacity to kiss her goodnight, you're an absolute cad. This isn't any real disaster though, because she usually can't kiss too well anyway.

Type 6: The Amazon. This is the counterpart of The Missing Link. If you're not careful you won't notice anything until you start to kiss her goodnight. Then she'll clamp a head lock on you and it'll be a week before you can look anywhere but straight ahead. Unlike The Missing Link, she doesn't have bulging muscles. She keeps them well hidden, and you don't notice the danger until you're face turns purple.

As a conclusion, Barbara Jones says a girl should try to find a man who isn't on her list. I say just the opposite. Instead of looking for a woman who doesn't have the personalities I have described, look for one with a little bit of each. However, be careful that there isn't too much of any one of the two qualities. If you happened to get hold of a puritan with the instincts of an amazon, you might get a broken jaw.

Holmes and Eris Tell of Additions

Dr. Jerome Holmes was passing out roll-your-own tobacco to Hartnell faculty members this week in commemoration of the birth of his fourth son and eighth child.

Also joining the baby parade was the first grandson of Mr. Louis Eris. The lad is the offspring of two Hartnell graduates, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Johnson.

Geographers Tour Kaiser Mine, Plant

Dr. Curtis Wilson's economic geography class visited the Kaiser corporation's dolomite mine and processing plant in Natividad recently.

The methods and processes for converting the mineral into fire resistant bricks were explained by Robert Stephens, the plant engineer who guided the class around the plant. Stephens explained that some of the dolomite is taken to the Kaiser plant in Moss Landing where it is converted into magnesium oxide.

BUDGET . . .

Social activities expenses were raised $900 for the hiring of either the Russ Morgan or the Stan Kenton band for a coming dance. A similar activity is being considered for later in the year.

Other increases were made for sports, the student union, yearbook, newspaper and miscellaneous supplies.

DRAMATISTS . . .

Tryouts for the cast of seven men and four women will be held on Feb. 2 from 7-10 p.m. in the Little theater.

Math Teachers Attend Confab

Daniel Coulter and John Schwellenbach, Hartnell college mathematics instructors, will attend the northern California sectional meeting of the Mathematical Association of America at Stanford University Saturday.

The Hartnell teachers will head lectures by professors from the naval postgraduate school in Monterey, the University of California at Davis, Stanford, Dartmouth college, Fresno State college and the University of California.

Hartnell Choir Sings For King City Group

The Hartnell college choir will sing for the Business and Professional Women's club at 8 p.m. Jan. 24. The group will sing for 30 minutes. It is expected there will be several hundred people there, according to Mr. Robert Lee, choir director. The program for the choir was not available at press time.

Examinations Set

Final examinations for the fall semester begin Thursday and continue until Jan. 30. Extended day classes will have final examinations during the last meeting of the class. A copy of the examination schedule may be obtained in the main office.

Hart Hoopmen Win Over Oaks In Tournament

The Hartnell Panthers received an 81-56 defeat at the hands of the Monterey Peninsula College Lobos in the Coast conference tournament at San Jose before Christmas. The Panthers had beaten the Menlo cage squad in a previous game during the tourney.

Kirk Fowler, Bob Flores and Jerry Smith all tallied 11 points each and Jerry Kanada made ten, six of which were made on free throws. Flores and Smith made good for seven free points each.

San Jose took first place in the tournament. Diablo Valley was second, Monterey third and Hartnell fourth.

Diablo Valley Cagers Battle Win-Hungry Hartnell Tonight

Hartnell plays host to a strong Diablo Valley team tonight. Diablo Valley, which placed second in the Coast conference tournament at San Jose, will be looking for revenge for the defeat the Vikings received at the hands of Hartnell in football.

Diablo has a strong team built around returning lettermen Bill Mortenson and Rally Rounsaville. Mortenson is 6-4 and tips the scales at 198, while Rounsaville is a little guy who is 6-1 and weighs 170.

Hartnell and Diablo Valley have one thing in common—neither has much height.

Hartnell will probably start the team of Kirk Fowler and Bob Flores at forwards, Jerry Kanada and Frank Filice at guards and Jerry Smith at the center position. It is hoped that Jerry Brown of Kendalville, Indiana, will be able to join the Panthers for the game tonight, but it isn't likely. Brown is still recovering from an injured shoulder.

Tomorrow afternoon Hartnell will venture to Santa Clara to take on the Santa Clara university freshmen in a nonconference game. The "Colts" have won three games and lost four.

Women's Cagers Lose 36-26 Contest To Fort Ord Quintet

The Hartnell women's basketball team lost a game to the Fort Ord WACS Jan. 8 at Hartnell by a score of 36-26. They will take on the Santa Cruz women's team Monday at Santa Cruz.

Members of the team are Verna Lipska, Beck Sadler, Diane Hayes, Pearl Mak, June Kimoto, Shirley Crader, Nelia Lorejo, Jeannine Hubbard and Beth Plesche.

Harts Shine In Star Tilt

By Jim Gregory

Congratulations to Coach Ken Blue, Bob Cabanyog, Bob Harrison and Jim Stireman. They put on a great show in the All-American all-star game as Cabanyog scored three touchdowns to lead the West team to victory.

Well, what can we say about the Panther basketball team. They have ability, and they have a good coach. It's just a case of not having the height.

Jerry Kanada, Kirk Fowler and Bob Flores would make good playmakers on nearly any junior college team, but the playmakers don't do you any good unless you have the tall man there to make the points. Maybe Jerry Brown will give them a little spark. Let's hope so.

Airmen Bomb Panther Cagers

A 10-7 lead early in the game was the only one sustained by the Panther cagers as they fought the Moffett Field Flyers to a bitter 79-56 defeat last Friday night.

Jerry Smith took the Hartnell scoring honors with 18 points tallied followed by Jerry Kanada with 10. Bob Flores, Dennis Davidson and Kirk Fowler have nine, eight and seven respectively.

The Panthers' Duane Schneider took a cut in the forehead in the first half of the game when he ran into Jim Odin of Moffett Field who seemed to be knocked out for a time.

This game marked the Panthers' second loss to Moffett.

Lobos Edge Panthers In 57-53 Loop Opener

By Dave Wynne

In their first conference game of the season, the Hartnell Panthers came close to giving the axe to the Monterey Peninsula college Lobos in a battle which the wolf pack won by a mere 57-53 score here Tuesday night.

Throughout the game, the Panthers seemed to show more ability than they have exhibited throughout the season. Playing against the team which beat them in the San Jose Coast Conference tournament this year, the Harts held the top of the 18-12 score in the first quarter of play, falling merely to a 23-23 tie at the half.

Though the Lobos took the lead in the first minutes of the third quarter, the Panthers tied them again and kept only a few points between themselves and MPC until the final buzzer.

Topping the Hartnell scoring pole was Bob Flores who made 19 points. Kirk Fowler took second place with 16, followed by Jerry Smith with 10. Mike Porter made four points, and Jerry Kanada and Dennis Davidson chalked up two points each.
